There was a familiar face in prisoner's dock at Judge Sanders' dispensary today. It was none other than that of Will Haffey, who returned last night after a several months' absence, enforced by the young man's alleged action in stealing a skiff belonging to "Windy".

Haffey, it will be remembered, engaged in a free-for-all fight on Second street on the night of his hasty fight, and took the skiff in which to escape. It was the "White Wings," valued at about $50, and when he reached Metropelis with it sold it for $8 to Dr. Covington.

A warrant was issued against him and a boy named Max Woods, oharging them jointly with the theft, but the latter fully established his innocence and was acquitted. Haffey was arrested at Metropolis for drankenness, and while serving his fine there the officers were notified that he was wanted here on a felony charge, and to hold him, but they paid no at-tention to the request and released

He thus escaped, and was heard of no more until he arrived here this morning and was arrested in the Palmer House bar by Officers Smedley, Lescher and Loftin about 3:30 o'clock this morning.

It is understood that he has never been far from the city, having been in Brooklyn and Metropolis most of the time. He sent word several times to Marshal Collins that he intended to surrender about court time.

The case against him was this morning continued until Saturday,

THE CROP REPORT.

Conditions Most Fayorable for American Wheat.

From the Globe Democrat. The government crop report, which shows an improvement in the condition of wheat as compared with a month ago, is encouraging. Last month's condition indicated a handsome increase in the total yield as compared with the crop in 1896, while the estimates which are now furnished show that the gain will be greater than was expected four weeks age. While the wheat crop in the United States is reasonably sure to be 75,000,000 bushels larger than it was in 1896, the condition in Russia, France, Austria-Hungary and Great Britain, as reported by the European sion to the city hospital or poor agent of the United States Department of Agriculture, indicates a smaller yield in those countries than was had last year. All this is good news for the American wheat grower. He will have more to sell than he had in 1896, and the falling off in the crop in most of the important producing countries of Europe will give him a market for his surplus at fair prices.
